Welcome to ArchLink!

Greetings, alumni!

“We Are Family” is the 2011 Homecoming theme for Oct. 14-15. The theme selected this year was based on combining the celebration of Family Weekend and Homecoming – bringing together, alumni, parents, students, siblings and friends of The University of Findlay.

We have changed the format of the weekend, starting the celebration on Friday evening with a parade that will include shopping carts decorated by clubs/organizations, a pep rally introducing our fall sports, the coronation of the king and queen and a carnival atmosphere leading into the annual display of fireworks.

The celebration continues on Saturday with the annual 5K Run/Walk and Little Oiler Fun Run, annual alumni breakfast, dedication of the class gift, celebration in Koehler Fitness & Recreation Complex and the football game. Closing the evening will be reunion gatherings of the Alpha Sigma Phi fraternity, Black Student Union and Marketing Club, plus an all-Greek mixer and the celebration of the 25th anniversary of the environmental programs.

We also have collaborated with the Arts Partnership of Greater Hancock County to offer to you a performance on Saturday evening by The Blanks. Based in Los Angeles, The Blanks perform and sing family-friendly (cool) entertainment with plenty of (hip) musical and sketch comedy. They love to sing a cappella, entertain and make people laugh, using skits, antics, choreography, talking toys as lead singers and costume changes. They appeared on eight seasons of the TV show “Scrubs” as “Ted’s Band” or “The Worthless Peons.”

S.T.A.R. (StudentTs for Alumni Relations) is compiling an alumni/parents/faculty/staff cookbook to be sold as a fundraiser for the club at Homecoming. You can submit your favorite recipes at www.findlay.edu, KEYWORD: Recipe, or click here. All recipes must be submitted by Friday, Sept. 2, 2011.

FINDLAY
THE UNIVERSITY OF FINDLAY

1. What's Happening on Campus?

Classes begin at the University on Monday, Aug. 22. New students will arrive on campus Thursday, Aug. 18, for orientation weekend. Many activities are planned, including a campus-wide scavenger hunt and welcome sessions by each college. The arch ceremony will be held at 4:30 p.m. Friday, Aug. 18, followed by a reception for new students and farewell to parents and families taking place on the front lawn of Old Main. On Saturday, students, faculty and staff will participate in service projects, organized by Campus Compact. Other activities for students will include giant inflatables, bingo and live entertainment.

The Mazza Museum at The University of Findlay announced July 13 the acquisition of 2,700 pieces of original artwork by famed children's book artist and author Steven Kellogg.

The acquisition represents a 50-percent expansion of the Mazza's collection of more than 5,000 pieces, bringing the total to more than 7,700 pieces of original artwork. The acquisition was made possible, in part, by a $350,000 gift from actor Anthony Edwards, best known for his starring role on the television show "ER." Some of Kellogg's popular work includes "Island of the Skog," "Johnny Appleseed," "A Rose for Pinkerton," "How Much is a Million" and "The Day Jimmy's Boa Ate the Wash." Readers may recognize characters such as The Christmas Witch, Pinkerton and Rose, Jimmy and Jimmy's Boa, and Clorinda from Kellogg's work. The museum will host both Edwards and Kellogg on campus during its Fall Conference for a special tribute to Kellogg for his work. To read the full news release, click here.

Benjamin Sapp '93, M '95, director of the Mazza Museum, announced the acquisition of artwork by Steven Kellogg on July 13 at the Mazza Summer Conference.

The University of Findlay recently was awarded a $7,500 grant from the Findlay-Hancock County Community Foundation to offer Communication Matters: A Public Relations Boot Camp for Nonprofit Organizations in Hancock County. The one-day workshop, which will be held in June of 2012, will address social media marketing; writing features and news releases; recruiting, training and retaining volunteers; developing teams; and grant development and writing. The keynote speaker is Dr. Janet Rice McCoy, who developed a similar successful workshop at Morehead State University. For more information, click here.

2. Academic Update

The University of Findlay's computer science, pharmacy and biology programs have been designated Programs of Innovation by the state of Ohio, which also awarded the University a grant to offer Choose Ohio First (COF) scholarships to students in those fields of study. The primary objectives of the Choose Ohio First Scholarship Program (COFSP) are to support increased higher education participation and success of Ohio students majoring in STEMM and STEMM education fields (science, technology, engineering, mathematics and medicine) and, in so doing, to advance the economic growth of each region of the state. Scholarships will be awarded in the fall of 2012 and may provide up to $4,700 per student. Recipients must be Ohio residents and meet academic requirements defined by the University. Since 2008, grant-funded Choose Ohio First scholarships also are offered at Findlay for students seeking to become licensed teachers of mathematics and science at the middle school and high school levels. The University of Findlay's Josephine Kershaw, Ph.D., associate professor of health care management, recently was named the ACBSP International Teaching Excellence Award recipient for 2011. The Accreditation Council for Business Schools and Programs recognizes individuals each year who exemplify teaching excellence in the classroom. As the 2011 Teaching Excellence Award recipient for the Great Lakes Council — ACBSP Region 4, Kershaw was honored with other regional recipients, each of whom received a medallion and a $100 check. From that group, two International Teaching Excellence Award recipients were announced, one from a baccalaureate/graduate degree-granting institution and one from an associate degree-granting institution. Kershaw received the International Award, representing baccalaureate/graduate degree granting institutions, and was presented with an engraved plaque and a $500 check. Dr. Josephine Kershaw accepts an award for international teaching excellence from Dr. Annette E. Craven, ACBSP president.

The Chronicle of Higher Education featured Ray McCandless, D.A., director of the Center for Teaching Excellence and professor of political science and public administration, in “Teaching Students to Write a Case Study,” published July 5. McCandless’ unique approach to using case studies in his courses caught the attention of Chronicle writer James M. Lang, who met McCandless during a spring visit to the University. When McCandless created a public administration concentration in UF’s MBA program in the 1990s, instead of using traditional case studies as teaching tools, he asked students to write their own. McCandless continues to give this assignment to students as a culminating class project. To read more, click here.

Matthew Stolick, Ph.D., is the Wilkin Chair for 2011-12, whose theme is “The Power of Play” for the year.

As the 2011-12 Richard E. Wilkin Chair for the College of Liberal Arts, Matthew Stolick, Ph.D., associate professor of philosophy, will devote one year of study to the interdisciplinary exploration of a single topic – The Power of Play: Essential to Human Being. Stolick will introduce his topic during a presentation at 7 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 1, in the Alumni Memorial Union. Additional events are planned for the academic year, including a presentation by Jaco J. Hamman, author of “A Play-Full Life: Slowing Down and Seeking Peace,” on Thursday, Oct. 27. Community members also are welcome to participate in a reading group, which will meet from 6-7:30 p.m. on Thursdays beginning Sept. 8 in the AMU Endly Room; “Homo Ludens: A Study of the Play Element in Culture” by Johan Huizinga will be discussed. Stolick believes that unstructured play is important to our quality of life but it is being eliminated from our structured lives. For details, contact Stolick at stolick@findlay.edu.

This fall, the University introduces a new business major – sport and event management. It is a dynamic program that offers internship opportunities with well-known organizations and companies, in addition to experiential learning through on-campus rotations with highly qualified academic and practicing professionals in operations related to the sport and event industry. The major can be tailored to students’ interests in public relations, coaching, marketing or hospitality management and food service. With a degree in sport and event management, graduates will be well equipped to oversee and manage sporting events, weddings, corporate meetings and fundraisers, among other activities. Click here for more information.

Attention Greek alumni! You won't want to miss reminiscing with your fraternity brothers and sorority sisters at the special all-Greek activities planned for Homecoming/Family Weekend.

Friday, Oct. 14

Beginning at 10:30 p.m., immediately following the fireworks on campus, an all-Greek mixer will be held in the atrium of the Findlay Inn & Conference Center. Reunite with your friends for a social gathering. A block of rooms at the Findlay Inn & Conference Center has been reserved at $66 each, plus tax. Reserve a room by calling Findlay Inn & Conference Center, 200 East Main Cross St., Findlay, at 419-422-5682 by Thursday, Sept. 15. Be sure to mention Greek to bring up the block of reservations.

Saturday, Oct. 15

From 8 p.m. to midnight, after participating in the day's Homecoming events, continue the celebration at Waldo Peppers, 411 South Main St. (room upstairs). There will be heavy appetizers, dancing and, surely, a lot of catching up with your friends from the past. The cost is $20 per person/$30 per couple. Register online at www.findlay.edu, KEYWORD: All Greek.

Join us for the 25th anniversary celebration of the environmental programs at Homecoming Weekend. Alumni from the hazardous materials management/environmental, safety and occupational health program, family, friends and community members are invited to see what's new!

Friday, Oct. 14

From noon to 2:30 p.m., the All Hazards Training Center (formerly known as the ERTC) will host an open house at 5000 Fostoria Ave. Tours of the facility will be offered and lunch will be provided. A UF bus will be available in the circle drive in front of Old Main to transport you at the following times: 11:45 a.m., 12:15 p.m., 12:45 p.m., 1:15 p.m. and 1:45 p.m.

From 3 p.m. to 5 p.m., the Environmental, Safety and Occupational Health Program will hold an open house and conduct tours of Brewer Science Hall facilities. Meet in the Environmental Resource Center (B115) to see the alternative energy display and hear students give poster presentations of their research projects. Tours also will be given of the environmental laboratory (Frost 138), the environmental theme houses at 138 W. Foulke Ave. and the All Hazards Training Center facilities in Renninger.

Saturday, Oct. 15

From 6-8 p.m., a reunion dinner for environmental alumni and guests will be held at the Findlay Inn and Conference Center, Fort Findlay Room, 200 East Main Cross St. Cost is $15 per person. For more information, go to www.findlay.edu, KEYWORD: Alumni, and click underneath the "We Are Family" icon at the top of the page or click here for reservations.

The annual Oiler Golf Alumni Outing will be held Saturday, Aug. 20, to benefit the UF men's and women's golf teams. The golf outing will be held at Sycamore Springs Golf Course, 11492 Twp. Rd. 25, Arlington, Ohio. The shotgun start begins at 9 a.m. Cost is $75, which includes 18 holes of golf, lunch and an alumni golf tee favor. There will be first-, second- and third-place winners, plus hole prizes, skill contests, prize for best dressed and door prizes. To register for the golf outing, call 419-434-4522.

in Occupational Therapy Fieldwork Education: Impact of Millennials and Strategies for Best Practice.” The students have completed all of the didactic and fieldwork requirements and will soon take their national certification examinations to become registered occupational therapists. The program provided a final celebratory luncheon where Dee Dee Spraw, alumni director, provided information on how to stay connected as UF alumni.

The members of The University of Findlay's 2011 occupational therapy weekend class attended their final classes in the program during the week of July 4. The final day was spent presenting graduate research projects. The projects included: “Parents’ Perceptions of Their Children’s Snacking after Sporting Events,” “Characteristics of Mothers Donating to the Mother’s Milk Bank of Ohio,” “Teachers’ Perceptions of the Use of Sensory Gardens in the Educational Environment,” “Reading Grade Level and Suitability of Printed Rheumatoid Arthritis Education Materials” and “Generational Differences

4. Alumni Spotlight

Timothy Murphy: Making a Difference for the Environment

Timothy Murphy, Ph.D. (M '98), associate professor of environmental, safety and occupational health management at The University of Findlay, has a passion for protecting and preserving the environment that has defined his life. “My main interest has always been to make a difference in the environment,” he said.

Dr. Timothy Murphy, M '98

He has sought to infuse that attitude into the students he teaches and mentors. In addition to teaching classes, Murphy engages students in applied research projects. Currently, a group of students are studying the use of shredded cardboard as an alternative to sawdust bedding in horse stalls, both as to cost effectiveness and improving the health and safety of people and animals.

Murphy began his career by serving two years as a public health officer in Montana after earning a bachelor’s degree in environmental health from Ferris State University in Michigan. From 1983 to 1997, he worked around the country at several companies involved in environmental remediation and emergency response cleanup.

In 1997, he enrolled in UF’s master of science in environmental, safety and health management, which took him a year to complete. With his industry experience, he was hired by the University’s environmental training center to conduct seminars at client facilities across the United States. He also developed new programs and updated the training center’s curriculum while he was taking classes toward his doctorate in environmental science at The Ohio State University.

He started teaching graduate courses for the University in 1999. “I got into education because I found that I could be part of a team that teaches a lot of students to do the same thing that I was doing, and so more work can be done,” he explained.

Murphy also participated in the Environmental Public Health Leadership Institute, sponsored by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, on a fellowship, and then he served as an instructor and mentor during the next four years. The institute experience provided a “great opportunity to improve leadership skills and mentor younger managers in the environmental public health field,” he said.

Murphy has shared his expertise internationally. He was The University of Findlay's representative to the Kake Educational Institute's new university in Chiba, Japan, which was developing a crisis management program. He gave a presentation in 2005 at the International Symposium on Crisis Management, held in Japan, and returned in 2008 as a keynote speaker.

This fall, Murphy assumes new duties as the chair of the Faculty Senate. He also was recently elected to a two-year term on the board of the national Environmental Health Science and Protection Accreditation Council.

He is eager to reconnect with alumni at the 25th anniversary celebration of the environmental program at Homecoming in October and to show off the latest research project in which two student groups living in campus environmental theme houses compete to see which can reduce energy consumption the most. (To see a schedule of Homecoming events and to make reservations, go to www.findlay.edu, KEYWORD: Alumni, and click beneath the Homecoming icon.)

The focus of Murphy's interest has changed from solid waste to sustainability issues. He paraphrased the Brundtland Commission's definition of sustainability as, "Live your life in a way today that saves resources so that future generations can live the same way."

"We can do things smarter," Murphy said. "I like to do applied research, something that the students can learn from more readily and can be applied as quickly as possible to solve a problem."

5. Oiler Sports

New Oilers Athletics Website

The University of Findlay Athletic Department has partnered with PrestoSports to form a new website, scheduled to be completed in early September. The new website will be the official home for all 24 of the Oilers sports programs.

The new website will feature a user-friendly design. It also will take advantage of social media, including the use of Facebook and Twitter, while having the capability to stream videos, highlights and interviews. PrestoSports is a leading technology provider to collegiate athletic departments with services including website design and hosting, live stats, award management, merchandising and officiating.

The Oilers Athletic Department asks all fans and viewers of our website to remain patient as information is transferred from the current site to the new one.

Swimming and Diving

The University of Findlay men's swimming and diving program recorded the highest GPA in the nation at the NCAA Division II level during the spring semester, while the women's squad ranked fourth. The men had a cumulative grade point average of 3.65, outdistancing Missouri University of Science and Technology, which came in second at 3.35. The women meanwhile recorded a GPA of 3.52.

Ailsa Hershaw

Individually, Ailsa Hershaw was an Academic All-American for the women with a 3.87 GPA, while Emily Thomas (4.0) and Jillian Herbst (3.52) earned honorable mention accolades. Tim Andersson-Lind was an honorable mention Academic All-American for the men's team after finishing the semester with a 3.6 GPA.

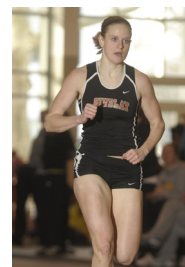

To be named an Academic All-American a student must have a GPA greater than 3.5, while qualifying for the national championship with an "A" time. Those who have a GPA greater than 3.5 and received a "B" time, without qualifying for the national championship, earn honorable mention status.

Volleyball

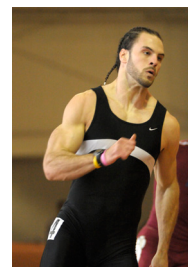

The University of Findlay women's volleyball team earned the American Volleyball Coaches' Association's Team Academic Award for the seventh straight year. The team earned a cumulative 3.58 GPA for the 2010-11 school year. Only 57 other NCAA Division II teams met the criteria to earn the AVCA's academic honors. The team's seven-year run is tied for the sixth longest current streak in Division II.

Track and Field

The University of Findlay men's and women's outdoor track and field teams each had five representatives earn Academic All-American honors from the United States Track and Field and Cross Country Coaches Association (USTFCCCA). For the men, John Guagenti, Greg Schaible, Curtis Smithey, Simon Bernard and Cory Vales earned the honor. On the women's side, Erin Calvelage, Randi Depp, Lindsey Schmitmeyer, Catherine Wiemers and Christine Zimmermann earned the honor.

6. Alumni Support

Ray Evans of Irvine, Calif., received a resolution honoring him for his 100th birthday on Oct. 2, 2011, from The University of Findlay Board of Trustees. He served on the board from 1981 until 1993, when he was named a trustee emeritus. He was named a Distinguished Associate in 1985 for his contributions and service, and he was awarded an Honorary Doctor of Business Management in 1992. The Evans Family Dining Room in the Alumni Memorial Union on campus was named for him by his family in 1991. He was the owner of Evans Office Equipment, headquartered in Findlay, for more than five decades. During a recent trip to California, David Ferguson, vice president for development, presented Evans with the certificate.

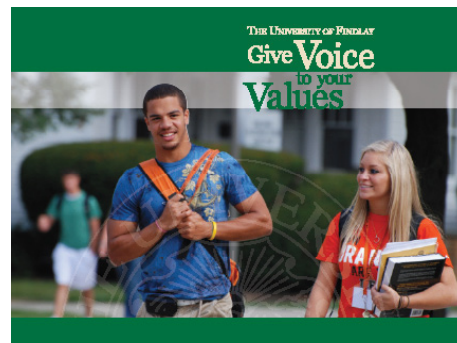

Ray Evans H '92, trustee emeritus, with his framed resolution from the UF Board of Trustees honoring him for his 100th birthday on Oct. 2, 2011.

Thank you! Alumni of The University of Findlay gave even more generously during the fiscal year ending June 30, 2011, making 1,390 gifts that totaled more than $354,000, compared to $332,000 during the previous year. As we continue the "Give Voice to Your Values" campaign, we are encouraged by the annual financial support that we receive from our Oiler family. We greet the new academic year with renewed energy and anticipate another exciting year in which our alumni partner with us in providing new educational opportunities for the next generation of students. More than 600 freshmen in the Class of 2015 are expected to enter campus within the next few days, bringing the undergraduate enrollment to more than 3,000 students. We hope that during this year you will commit to investing in their futures. Click here to give now!

In conjunction with the 125th Endowed Funds Drive and the Give Voice to Your Values campaign of The University of Findlay, four new funds recently were fully endowed. Since the campaign was announced in February 2008, 116 new funds totaling more than $8.9 million have been created.

Jessica and James Moses Business Scholarship

This fund was established in honor of Mr. and Mrs. James Moses by their daughter, Pamela K. Beall. Beall is a 1978 graduate of Findlay College and a member of the Board of Trustees of The University of Findlay. Jessica (Lewis) Moses was a 1969 graduate of Findlay College, and her husband, James Moses, was an ardent believer in the free market system. The scholarship is to assist business students who have an accounting and/or economics major, and are active in Students in Free Enterprise (SIFE). Recipients must be full-time students in their junior or senior years of study and have at least a 3.0 GPA.

Jeremy L. Pemberton '96 Scholarship Endowment Fund

Jeremy L. Pemberton established this scholarship to benefit outstanding students pursuing a major within the College of Business. Pemberton graduated from The University of Findlay with a bachelor's degree in economics in 1996. This scholarship is awarded to a student who is a Dana Scholar, is in his or her junior or senior year of study and has a 3.7 GPA or better.

Pemberton Basketball Endowment Fund

Jeremy L. Pemberton, Class of 1996, established the Pemberton Basketball Endowment Fund to support the men's basketball program at the University. He created the endowment as an expression of his high esteem for the work of Ronald P. Niekamp, former head men's basketball coach, and Charles A. Ernst '92, M '06, former assistant men's basketball coach and now head coach.

Zahler Family Scholarship Endowment Fund

The family of Dennis and Dr. Barbara Zahler established the Zahler Family Scholarship Endowment Fund to assist students who wish to study abroad. Dennis Zahler graduated from Findlay College with a bachelor of science in education and business in 1970 and was named a Distinguished Alumnus in 2004. He is the owner of Zahler & Associates, an independent insurance agency in Fort Mitchell, Ky. Dr. Barbara Zahler is an education professor at Thomas More College in Crestview Hills, Ky. This scholarship is a one-semester scholarship to assist students in meeting costs associated with studying abroad as a part of their degree program. Students should be in their sophomore, junior or senior years of study and have at least a 2.75 GPA.

The goal of the endowed funds drive is to create 125 new endowed funds for student scholarship, faculty development and program support. The 125th Endowed Funds Drive is part of The Give Voice to Your Values campaign, which is based on the values of integrity, service, responsibility, respect, dedication, excellence and generosity. The Give Voice to Your Values campaign, which was launched on Sept. 30, 2010, has raised more than $23.5 million toward its $40 million goal. To support the Give Voice to Your Values campaign, call 419-434-5334 or visit www.findlay.edu,
