September 2008

Welcome to ArchLink!

Greetings, alumni!

We hope to “Ignite Your Oiler Spirit” for Homecoming 2008, Sept. 19 and 20. Friday night will feature the Harlem Wizards vs. The Orange and Black Attack. Capping the evening will be the first Homecoming fireworks display!

Saturday’s activities begin with the 5K and Little Oiler Fun Run, the annual Alumni Association breakfast and the Athletic Hall of Fame ceremony. Bring the kids for the front lawn celebration with a golf cart parade, KidsZone, pony rides, UF Oiler Express train ride, face painting, magic tricks and more. Immediately following will be the alumni tailgate party at Donnell Stadium. Be prepared to cheer the Oilers to victory against the Wayne State Warriors. Come dressed in orange and black and watch for judges voting on the alumna/alumnus and student displaying the most UF spirit. It’s your chance to win a $50 gift certificate to the UF Oiler Mart! Sign up today and keep the traditions and spirit of your alma mater alive. For a complete list of UF Homecoming events visit www.findlay.edu, KEYWORD: Homecoming.

You won't want to miss the golf cart parade and celebration on the front lawn of Old Main for Homecoming!

As always, keep me updated by filling out the “What’s New with You?” form at www.findlay.edu, KEYWORD: Whats new.

With Oiler Pride!

1. What's Happening on Campus?

- The traditional Arch Ceremony at The University of Findlay welcomed nearly 700 new students. The annual Arch Ceremony, welcoming the Class of 2012, was held Sunday, Aug. 24, at 3 p.m. beginning in the Koehler Complex. Following the welcome address by President DeBow Freed, the students were ushered in through the Griffith Memorial Arch where they were greeted by faculty in full academic regalia. The Oiler Brass marching band provided processional music during the ceremony. Following the ceremony, a reception for new students, orientation leaders, faculty and staff in the Alumni Memorial Union, was hosted by President and Mrs. Freed, Dr. Dan May, vice president of academic affairs, and the college deans. Candid photos from the Arch Ceremony Aug. 24 are available online. Click here to view photos.

Faculty greeted more than 700 new students who marched through the Griffith Memorial Arch as part of the traditional ceremony on Aug. 24.

Campus was never more beautiful in summer with an array of baskets and planters overflowing with flowers.

Thousands of annuals, 16 hanging baskets, 25 pedestal baskets, 22 concrete planters and a dedicated physical plant staff make for one beautiful campus. Geraniums, wave petunias, marigolds, impatiens, vines, shrubs, trees and grass have been cared for daily by five staff members and their summer student helpers on the main campus. They're responsible for mowing, weeding, trimming, watering and dead-heading flowers – there are 500 geraniums around the flagpole alone. Caring for the grounds is the end result of good planning this spring. In January, UF staff members attended a trade show in Columbus and came back with some great ideas, such as hanging flower baskets from campus lampposts. More color was added to several areas of campus, but Old Main remains the focal point. All landscaping decisions on campus are made with the original architecture of the buildings in mind, and a University handbook is available to aid in those decisions. "I've seen people walk around and admire the landscaping during orientation and registration days," said Keith Samsal, groundskeeper. "We're beautifying campus, and it's appreciated." With help from Stratton Greenhouse staff, who put together the planters and baskets, next spring promises to be just as colorful. To see more, click here.

- The University of Findlay was named for the third consecutive year a "Best Midwestern College" for 2009 by the Princeton Review. The schools selected uphold the standards of Princeton Review's Best Midwestern College distinction and provide students with an overall good quality education and campus experience. Schools were reviewed based on anonymous student surveys, producing an opinion-driven profile for each college. "There are so many reasons The University of Findlay is the best place to attend college – exceptional students, faculty, programs, facilities and more," said Donna Gruber, director of undergraduate admissions. "For the University to be recognized for its many strengths by those surveyed for the Princeton Review is wonderful." For more details, click here.

• The University of Findlay again has been ranked by U.S. News and World Report a top-tier Best Universities – Masters in the Midwest . The complete list of rankings appears in the 2009 edition of “America’s Best Colleges,” and is currently available online at www.usnews.com/colleges. “The University of Findlay helps its graduates to succeed by offering one-on-one faculty mentoring, hands-on experience and innovative academic programs,” said Donna Gruber, director of undergraduate admissions. “We are proud that U.S. News & World Report once again has recognized that we provide an outstanding academic experience as we equip our students for meaningful lives and productive careers.” This selection reflects the dedication of faculty to good teaching and positive relationships with students, strong academic programs and the high ability level and desire to learn of Findlay students. • The Oiler Brass band returned to campus Aug. 18-22 to prepare for its 11th season on the field. With three sessions of practice a day, band members “live, eat and breathe marching band,” said Jack Taylor, director of bands. Volunteer parents served breakfast, lunch and dinner in the College First Church of God fellowship hall to facilitate the three practices each day. He noted that being in the marching band is more than knowing how to play an instrument. It also requires strength and endurance. “You don’t think about being in a marching band as an athletic pursuit necessarily but we’ve been sending e-mails out to students all summer telling them to get into a conditioning program,” he said. By the end of camp band members knew their pre-game show and two of their half-time performances, he said, as well as being “a lot more toughened up than they were when they came in.” According to Taylor, the 72-member band is the largest since the Oiler Brass was organized in 1997, and may equal the largest Findlay marching band under the direction of Louis Chenette in the 1960s and '70s. Ron Cable '64 has served as assistant director since the band’s formation. In an exciting opportunity, the Oiler Brass has been accepted to perform in the Columbus Day parade in New York City on Monday, Oct. 13, which is expected to be televised over the local NBC affiliate. After marching down Fifth Avenue in the noon parade, band members will get on the bus for the 10-hour return trip home, expecting to arrive in Findlay around 2 a.m. the next morning. Back home, the Oiler Brass will perform in the annual Findlay Halloween parade, which they’ve done every year since 1998. The band will close out its season at the last football game on Nov. 1, and then this year will present for the first time a marching band concert at 2 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 2, in the Winebrenner Theological Seminary auditorium. “Then on Nov. 3rd, they’ll hand in their uniforms and it’s all finished,” Taylor said.

• Staff members of the School of Environmental and Emergency Management (SEEM) not only prepare administrators, faculty and staff at The University of Findlay for emergencies, but also individuals on campuses across the nation. Staff members in K-12 schools, as well as college campuses, are requesting many of the training programs SEEM offers. Locally, SEEM trainers have been to Bowling Green State University and Ohio University in Lancaster and K-12 schools such as Findlay City, Fostoria, Upper Sandusky, Edgewood, Van Buren, Liberty-Benton and Arcadia. In addition, Harold Huffman, school/campus safety and security program manager, has been working with DeVry University, traveling to the university's campuses in Ohio, Arizona and Washington, with plans to complete training at additional DeVry locations. 2. Academic Update

- Todd H. Albert, Ph.D., a physical geographer and professor at Bowling Green State University, spoke about global climate change to a group of students, faculty and staff Aug. 26 in the Alumni Memorial Union. Albert encouraged those in attendance to look at areas of their lives where changes could be made to reduce carbon emissions and help the environment. Albert explained how greenhouse gases work and pointed out recent trends toward a warming climate, which could over the next 30 years result in the displacement of 150,000,000 people due to effects of climate change if human behavior does not change. He suggested several simple ways everyone can contribute to preserving our world: reduce consumption of food and water; shop smart when purchasing new appliances or vehicles; learn about alternative energy sources; be informed; unplug electronic devices when not in use; form political action committees; and vote smart.

Bowling Green professor Dr. Todd Albert discussed global warming trends and how individuals can slow the progress with personal choices.

David J. Chorba '08 and Rita S. (Mengerink) Chorba '08, athletic training graduates, presented their research at a national conference in Las Vegas in July.

- Recent athletic training graduates David J. Chorba and Rita S. Chorba presented "Use of a Functional Movement Screening Tool to Determine Injury Risk to Female Collegiate Athletes" at the National Strength and Conditioning Association 2008 national conference in Las Vegas in July. Lucinda E. Bouillon, Ph.D., associate professor, served as a mentor for the project.
- UF's College of Business (COB) has undergone some changes this summer, all of which are designed to enhance the effectiveness of the college's programs and to better serve students. New academic leadership was appointed for the college:
 - Maria Gamba, associate professor of business, is the chair of the Department of Quantitative and Global Business Studies and will oversee the areas of accounting, finance, economics, systems analysis and international business.
 - John Wolper, Ed.D., associate professor of business, is the chair of the Department of Business Administration and will oversee the areas of marketing, business management, human resources, hospitality management and entrepreneurship.

- Scott Freehafer, Ph.D., assistant professor of business, is the director of the master of business administration (MBA) and non-traditional business programs, which includes the business degree completion and the Allen Correctional Institution programs.

- Robert Rustic, assistant professor of business, is the director of undergraduate advising.

The newly appointed leaders within the college are responsible for the academic progress of both the undergraduate and graduate programs. In addition, the college is putting a focus on student academic advising. “We’re going to ramp up our focus on advising,” said Paul Sears, Ph.D., dean of the COB. “We want the process to be more personalized to each student’s needs.” Graduate advising will be overseen by Freehafer, and undergraduate advising will be directed by Rustic. Both will be working to make academic advising for all students more effective. The COB also will hire a part-time administrative assistant to help with the additional workload within the college.

The College of Business has reorganized to better serve students. New academic leadership includes: (from left) Dr. Scott Freehafer, Robert Rustic, Dr. Paul Sears, Dr. John Wolper and Maria Gamba.

- What does it take to be the leader of a Fortune 500 company? Joseph Martelli, D.I.T., associate professor of business and Patricia Abels, D.B.A., assistant professor of business, are conducting research that may answer that question. Using the 2008 Fortune 500 company list, Martelli and Abels have gathered data on each company and its CEO.

“We want to push the current state of knowledge further and profile the leadership of corporate America,” explained Martelli. Martelli and Abels started the project by developing a comprehensive research study code book – the first step in organizing the more than 40 variables used in the study, which translates to roughly 23,000 data points for analysis. Martelli and Abels will use the data to conduct extensive cross-tab analysis. They will look at how CEOs differ from industry to industry, how many CEOs received a liberal arts education compared to those who received a business education and if CEOs from the same industry have similar characteristics, among many other comparisons. “Leadership is a critical variable in institutional success,” said Martelli. “I hope that we can address the leadership gap in America.” Martelli and Abels plan to present their research beginning this spring. - In June, two UF faculty members, two UF alumni, 13 UF graduate students and two UF undergraduate students presented a combined total of 20 papers at the India-USA Global Business and PR Conference in Chennai, India. Twelve of those people also participated in the India study abroad program, which was happening at the same time. Approximately 100 delegates from the U.S., India, UK, Australia and New Zealand participated in the conference, which was covered by leading national media in English and local media in Tamil.

- Calling members of the Class of '93 – you have reached an important milestone – your 15-year anniversary! John Kidd '93, invites you to your reunion gathering during Homecoming weekend. Come alone, with your spouse/guest, or with your family. We encourage you to attend Homecoming activities starting on Friday evening and all day on Saturday. Events planned for your reunion include participating in the golf cart parade with a Class of '93 decorated cart; reunion celebration under a tent on the front lawn from noon-1:30 p.m.; and a tail-gate party at Donnell Stadium, capped by an evening reunion dinner. A photo of those returning will be taken during the reunion celebration on the front lawn (noon-1:20 p.m.) and at the reunion dinner. Most importantly, it is a time to reunite with your classmates and friends! To register, or if you have any questions, please contact Dee Dee Spraw, 419-434-4589, or e-mail sprow@findlay.edu.

- Bob '57 and Catherine Pritts on Aug. 3 again hosted the Columbus Summer Send-off. Catherine had a wonderful selection of food for everyone to enjoy, while Bob planned an afternoon of activities that allowed interaction with the parents and students, from marshmallow golf to a corn hole tournament and a water balloon toss. The goal of the event was to get the students and parents connected, and there's no doubt that was accomplished.

- The Alumni Board of Governors hosted an information booth for the beginning of fall semester, Aug. 25 and 26. A big thank you to the following Alumni Board of Governor members: Matt Maglicic '92, Cam (Roberts) Taylor '67, Jim Taylor '72 and Susan Hite '87 for staffing the information booth that assisted more than 200 students in finding classrooms and/or locations of buildings on the first two days of classes.

The Columbus Summer Send-off got freshmen and their families off to a good start: (front row) Courtney Bertsch, James Slosser, Ryan Roads, Brianne Hurd; (second row) Sarah and Blythe Bertsch, Robert Pettry, Sandy Roads, Amy Hurd, Catherine Pritts; (third row) Bob Pritts '57, Gene Bertsch, Mike Roads.

- The Offices of Development and Alumni & Parent Relations hosted a welcome tent for parents and freshmen on move-in day, Aug. 22. Parents, siblings and new students enjoyed treats of snow cones and popcorn. New students had an opportunity to spin a wheel with questions to answer from various areas in the Office of Development. A goody bag was given to parents and two drawings were held for a parent and a student to win a UF lawn chair.

Snow cones were a welcome treat for families during move-in day.

Stacey Endicott '02 and Clifford Brooks '48 in Florida.

- Alumni director Dee Dee Spraw made a quick trip to Florida, July 30-Aug. 1, to visit with Clifford Brooks '48. Clifford loves his alma mater and Dee Dee was fortunate to spend time with him reminiscing about his days at Findlay College by looking at the Argus yearbook and many other items he has collected over the years. On July 31, Dee Dee met up with Stacey Endicott '02 to discuss plans for a young alumni event in Florida in 2009. Watch for details!

4. Alumni Spotlight

- The University of Findlay will honor several of its graduates during the Alumni Association Annual Breakfast on Sept. 20. The 2008 Distinguished Alumni will include Ronald C. Cable '64, A.R. Charnes '66, Michael H. Mallett '88 and Deborah (Edinger) Roberts '71, with the Gold Medallion Award honoring the late Desmond Buford '90, M '99 and Micheal Anders as the Arch Award selection.

- Since 1997, Ron Cable '64 has been assistant director of UF's Oiler Brass marching band, which performs for home football games and other sporting events, local parades, band shows, and on tour. He has been an active member of the Findlay community for more than 48 years. Ron has served since 2001 as a member of the Blanchard Valley Center Human Rights Board, and served from 1992 to 2000 as a member of the center's Board of Education. He is the current chairman and a two-term member of the board of directors of Hancock Federal Credit Union. He has been a member of the College First Church of God for 11 years and a member of the church's Worship Choir for 10 years. He has been an active member of the Alumni Board of Governors and volunteered at UF alumni events.

Ron Cable '64

- A.R. Charnes '66 played on the UF varsity basketball team and the golf team while earning a degree in marketing, and began his career with Marathon Oil Co. in Findlay. He worked with Marathon 22 years prior to joining the management team of Getty Petroleum Corp., from which he retired as vice president of marketing in February 2008. He is a member of The University of Findlay Alumni Association, Varsity "F" Alumni and was active in youth groups in various communities where he and his family were located. In October 2007, A.R. and his wife, Mary Ann, announced a unique $200,000 gift to the University, which beginning this fall is helping to enable deserving students to experience the benefits of on-campus living at The University of Findlay.

A.R. Charnes '66

- Michael Mallett '88 earned a bachelor's degree in business administration from The University of Findlay, graduating with the honor of Founders' Son. He is founder and president of Corporate Research International (CRI), a market research company that has achieved national recognition for its phenomenal growth. He founded several companies in Washington, D.C., before returning to Findlay with his wife, Anne Harrington '89, to establish CRI and raise their family. He supports downtown development and restoration of historic buildings as well as supporting local charities. At UF, he serves on the advisory board of the College of Business, and in July of this year, he and his family established the Dr. Jerry J. Mallett Institute Endowment Fund at the Mazza Museum in honor of his father, who was the museum's founding director and now serves as its curator.

Michael Mallett '88

- Deborah (Edinger) Roberts '71 has coached and taught in public schools in Ohio, California, Connecticut and North Carolina. For the past 10 years she has worked as a physical education teacher in the Charlotte Mecklenburg (N.C.) School System. She was named Outstanding Teacher Assistant in the Accelerated Readers Program in 2008 for her work with English as a Second Language (ESL) students. Roberts has been active in the Matthews (N.C.) United Methodist Church as a member of the Administrative Council, Stewardship Committee and Habitat House Committee, as a Bible study and financial workshop teacher and as a nursery volunteer. She also has worked as a volunteer at Presbyterian Hospital, and as a board member and chair of the Family Selection Committee for Habitat for Humanity in Matthews.

Deborah (Edinger) Roberts '71

- In addition, the late Desmond Buford '90, M '99, will receive the Gold Medallion Award, presented in memory of an alumnus and in recognition of outstanding service and accomplishments during his lifetime. As director of Intercultural Student Services, Des had served as an advocate for students of color, provided campuswide programming to educate the University community on issues of diversity and multiculturalism, and served as a resource person for faculty, staff and students with questions on topics relating to diversity. He also was a respected mentor to many student-athletes and other students and served as an active member of the UF Alumni Board of Governors.

Desmond Buford '90

- Dr. Micheal F. Anders, professor and chair of the music department, will receive the Arch Award, honoring service of at least 25 years by a faculty or staff member who does not have a degree from the University. Anders teaches music courses including music history, music appreciation, musical theatre, music fundamentals, music theory, voice and many more. He also directs the UF Concert-Chorale and University Singers, and serves as producer, music director and conductor of an annual musical production, as well as community concerts and musical productions, while continuing to perform himself. He has chaired the music department since 1998 and has worked to build financial support for the music program.

5. Oilers Sports

- The Oilers football team began its season with a 26-0 win over Urbana University on Saturday, Aug. 30, in Urbana, Ohio. The victory marked the second consecutive year Findlay has opened its season with a shutout win, as the team defeated the University of Charleston 20-0 in 2007. The Oilers have started the season 1-0 in each of the past seven years. Sophomore linebacker Brandon Craft led the way with eight tackles and a fumble recovery for a touchdown.

- The Oilers men's soccer team began the season with a bang after defeating Bellarmine University 2-1 on Sunday, Aug. 31, at DeHaven Field. Junior B.J. Goodwin, the reigning Great Lakes Intercollegiate Athletic Conference (GLIAC) Offensive Player of the Year, scored Findlay's first goal, which was followed by senior Michael Albert's game-winning score.

- The Oilers women's volleyball team opened the season in Canyon, Texas, and came away with a 2-2 record. Findlay defeated the University of New Mexico-Highlands and Fort Lewis College and lost to West Texas A&M University and Abilene Christian University. Sophomore Jenny Slone scored 52 kills while freshman Jessica Vonins registered 31 kills and 81 assists during the four-match set.

Jenny Slone

- The Oilers men's basketball team, led by senior all-American Josh Bostic, will open its season Nov. 7, 2008, when it travels to Cincinnati, Ohio, to take on NCAA Division I foe Xavier University at 7 p.m. for an exhibition game. Last season, Findlay defeated The Ohio State University, 70-68, in an exhibition game.

6. Alumni Support

- Ring, ring ... It's The University of Findlay calling! In the very near future, Findlay students will be hard at work phoning alumni to ask for financial support of this year's UF Fund. Your gifts to this fund play a vital role in sustaining the ongoing operations of the University and help the institution provide all students with an excellent education as we move further into the 21st century. Every gift counts and is needed now more than ever as these gifts directly enhance the quality of learning that Findlay students receive! Please give generously to the students ... perhaps you'll even consider a gift of $250 or more as you are able?
- A great way to double or even triple your gift to the UF Fund is through corporate matching gift programs. If you or your spouse work for or are affiliated with a company with a matching gift program, you are offered this benefit that allows you to help allocate their charitable dollars to causes that you believe in and support. To see if your company has a matching gift program, visit <http://www.matchinggifts.com/findlay/giftdb.cfm>. Or, contact your company's human resources department for more information on how to take advantage of this great benefit.
- Please note that you can still make a gift to the UF Fund by responding to one of the direct mail pieces sent to your home (in fact, you should have already received one), if we are unable to reach you by phone. Or, if you wish, you can make a gift online by clicking "Give to Findlay" on the University's home page, www.findlay.edu. Thank you for your ongoing support of The University of Findlay and its students!
- Members of the Class of 1958 — celebrating their 50-year reunion — and members of the Class of 2008 are joining together to establish the University Archives as a class project. Located in Shafer Library, the University Archives will provide the University a repository for past and present documents and artifacts. The Archives will be dedicated during Homecoming this month. This is a much-needed University project, and we seek additional financial help to complete the initial phase. Contact James Houdeshell, Stout Alumni Center, 419-434-4551, regarding gifts to the University Archives.
- The University's annual Applause! recognition reception will be held on Friday evening, Oct. 10, 2008. This event recognizes those who have made significant contributions of time and resources to The University of Findlay and says "thank you." Individuals who have contributed $1,000 or more in cash to the University during the preceding fiscal year, which ended June 30, 2008, will receive invitations to this special and fun event.
