Hello Clinical Faculty,

There is a new system for CPI training and access to your CPI certificate.

If you have completed the CPI training & have a certificate, HOLD ONTO IT. As the learning center will no longer house certificates after 3-1-19.

If you have taken the CPI training, but need a certificate, jump to the last paragraph to obtain your certificate.

If you still need to do the training, start from paragraph one.

You will this training prior to using the CPI system.

Let us know if you have any questions.

Thanks, Dr. Deborah George, Dr. Allison Durham, & Mr. AJ Wright

LMS-521A: 2013 PT CPI –

Using the APTA PT Clinical Performance Instrument for Students: A Self-Guided Training Course

This course is no longer available on the APTA Learning Center.

Exciting News!

APTA is proud to announce that training modules for the Physical Therapist Clinical Performance Instrument Web (PT CPI WEB) and the Physical Therapist Assistant Clinical Performance Instrument Web (PTA CPI WEB) are now being delivered through a new, more user-friendly platform. The change was made in response to input from both clinical instructors and students who shared their need for a "one-stop" system that would reduce unnecessary registration burdens and help users become more quickly on-boarded to effectively use these important tools.

What's changed?

All PT CPI and PTA CPI – related training resources have been moved from the APTA Learning Center, and are now housed at Liaison International, a leader in web-based educational solutions. Now users can go to one easy-to-navigate site to find both training materials and assessment instruments. Additionally, the trainings are now open-access, allowing users to quickly and easily download the resources they need, and the site even includes a Clinical Assessment Suite Help Center with special assistance areas for program staff, clinical education coordinators, clinical instructors, and students. Best of all, the training modules are free, and can be viewed as often as users like.

Be patient, it takes some time to load 118 power point slides. Please note that the new system no longer has a testing component and you will not receive a certificate. However, you may access the self-guided modules as many times as you wish.

Sharing the information

If you already have instructions that reference the APTA Learning Center as the source for the training module, simply substitute the "CPIWeb tutorial (PT/PTA) at Liaison Help Center," with the appropriate link added (PT or PTA). It's important to stress that the CPI cannot be accessed until the training module is completed.

Already took the course, but currently enrolled in CPI? PLEASE READ

No problem. Users who have completed the APTA Learning Center-based training do not need to re-take the module in CPIWeb. It's important, however, that participants keep their training completion certificates, which can be downloaded here. The certificate and CEU files will remain in the Learning Center until March 1, 2019 ONLY – after that you will NO LONGER be able to access them through the Learning Center.

We're excited about this important step in the evolution of the CPI program, and grateful to the stakeholders who took the time to provide feedback on needed improvements. If you have any questions about the change, please contact us at: academicservices@apta.org.
