

FACULTY MEMBER AND CLINICAL COORDINATOR HEALTH INFORMATICS PROGRAMS

The University of Findlay invites applications for a full-time 12 month appointment to serve as a faculty member and clinical coordinator for the Health Informatics Programs to aid in the development of curriculum, program marketing, recruitment, assessment of program effectiveness, development of programmatic policies and procedures and the administration, instruction, coordination, documentation and supervision of students in our dynamic Health Informatics Programs. Rank and salary are commensurate with qualifications with the position being available in January 2018.

The applicant should have a master's degree (doctorate preferred), with appropriate licensure and certification, and have relevant experience. Experience in supervising/teaching, and scholarship are preferred. The ideal candidate will be an individual with a passion for the profession and a vision for professional education, experience with accreditation, and a record of professional activity. Strong communication skills and a desire to work with students in a setting that prides itself on providing close relationships between students and faculty are expected. Candidates must be committed to student-centered education.

Founded in 1882, The University provides innovative programs grounded in the liberal arts and sciences to prepare students for meaningful lives and productive careers.
