Nurturing Every Aspect of An Oiler Education: A.R. and Mary Ann Charnes

By Caitlin Paynich

A.R. Charnes, chair of The University of Findlay Board of Trustees, and his wife Mary Ann, recognize that students come to The University of Findlay not only to study their major but also to nurture other aspects of their personal development as they pursue their education.

“When students live on campus they learn how to meet and deal with people from other parts of the country and become a part of the community,” said Charnes, who earned his Bachelor of Science degree in Business from Findlay College in 1966. During the Give Voice to your Values Campaign, they created the A.R. and Mary Ann Charnes Student Life Endowment to provide room and board for students who are otherwise unable to live on campus. “Being a lifetime Oiler is about pride and responsibility. Mary Ann and I believe that through supporting The University of Findlay, we are also supporting Findlay and the surrounding area as well. I want to ensure the next generation has the same strong feelings about this University as I do,” he said.

Now, the Charnes have taken another step to make certain that students have the opportunity to grow academically and be involved on campus by making a $150,000 gift to support the new Center for Student Life and College of Business building. “The new building is a transformational part of the University’s future. It will become an essential part of the campus and greater Findlay area,” said Charnes. “Student life will be able to expand from what it is now in the Alumni Memorial Union, and the College of Business will have the teaching tools it needs to provide a high-quality education for our students.”

“Those on-campus interactions are important,” added his wife Mary Ann, “and the new facility will provide a central place for students to meet and communicate.” The two of them met while A.R. was a student at Findlay College, and they’ve been married for 51 years. Charnes attended a small high school, and he was among the first in his family to earn a college degree. Coach Jim Houdeshell helped him find a place at Findlay College on the basketball court and in the classroom. They have also created an endowment to support the men’s basketball program at UF.

Charnes credits his success to meeting people and professors at Findlay who “looked after” him. “The professors really took the time to talk to me and work with me even outside of class and that doesn’t happen on a larger campus,” he said. One of their daughters also studied education at Findlay, and they remember how being involved on campus made a difference to her. “I’m very proud of the whole group of people who work at The University of Findlay,” said Charnes. “I can see the pride they take in the educational experiences of our students.”

“The new building is a transformational part of the University’s future. It will become an essential part of the campus and the greater Findlay area,” said A.R. Charnes.

Looking Ahead by Looking Back

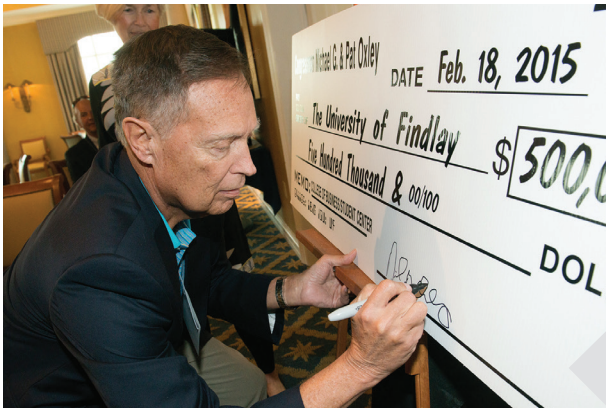

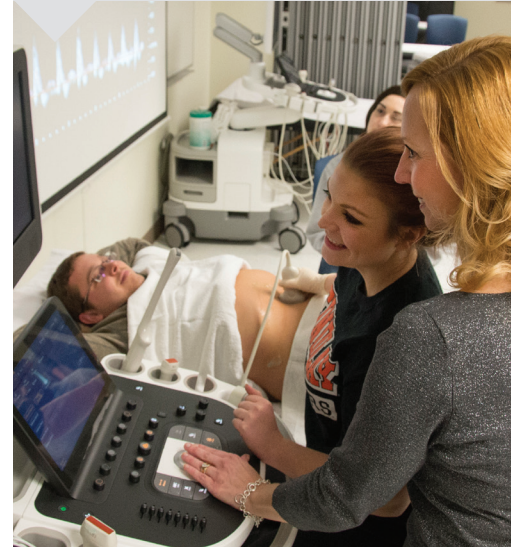

by Barbara Lockard M'02

It's become a UF tradition. The day before students arrive for the start of fall semester, the faculty and staff gather at the President's Breakfast. A highlight of the fall 2015 breakfast was the showing of a "Top Ten UF News Items" video. Faculty and staff had voted for the most newsworthy activities of the 2014-15 academic year through an online poll in early August. Although all suggestions couldn't be addressed in the 7-minute video, the 10 most popular are a good representation of last year's achievements and noteworthy events. Just like the late-night talk shows, we present the Top Ten here in reverse order.

10 Symposium for Scholarship and Creativity – Held on April 17, 2015, this annual event featured the works of more than 300 students on topics as diverse as African elephants, folk songs and even Jack the Ripper. It's a real showcase for student research and creativity across all disciplines.

9 Addition of a Sonography Program – This addition further enhances the College of Health Professions diagnostic study offerings. Sonographers are currently some of the most "in demand" professionals in the health care industry.

5 Oxley Gift – The Center for Student Life and College of Business building moved closer to reality thanks to a $500,000 gift from former U.S. Congressman Mike Oxley and his wife, Patricia. The gift, announced in February 2015, shows the Oxleys' close ties to the University and their commitment to education.

3 Oiler Build, Habitat for Humanity – It took six years of fundraising, but a UF-sponsored house was announced in May 2015. Julie Merrin and her daughter, Rachel, are the owners of the home on Payne Ave. in Findlay. Volunteer builders held a "raise the walls" event in Aug. 2015 and a dedication ceremony was held in October.

4 Fall 2014 Enrollment Increase – The fourth consecutive semester of student growth, fall 2014 marked a 6.5 percent increase in first-time, full-time students; a 20 percent increase in graduate students and a 46 percent increase in international students.

8 The Robert Noyce Teacher Scholarship
Program – The University of Findlay received $1.2 million through this National Science Foundation grant. Funds will be used to groom math and science teachers to work in schools that serve low-income students.

6 Bachelor of Science in Nursing – Added in fall 2014, this program has generated much interest. No wonder! It's projected that there will be 1.2 million job openings for registered nurses in the next eight years.

7 Helping Hands Food Drive 2014
 – Collecting 44,000 pounds of food in 24 hours is certainly newsworthy! That's exactly what UF faculty, staff and students accomplished in the annual food drive for Findlay's Chopin Hall.

2 McGranahan Gift – The generosity of two sisters from McComb, Ohio nabbed the second spot in the 2014-15 Top Ten. Mildred and Marjorie McGranahan donated more than $1.5 million from their estates to The University of Findlay for "scholarships to encourage stewardship of the land and awareness of the world's ecosystem."

1 There's more to NFL football than the game itself. That's the reason that UF's partnership with the Cleveland Browns landed the top spot in our Top Ten. The partnership has already provided sports-industry experience through internships for UF students. In addition, the Browns Edge Partnership makes opportunities available for students to be mentored by professionals in the Browns organization.

Grants Fund Internships, Teacher Training and Wetlands Restoration

by Barbara Lockard M'02

Tricia Valasek, grants manager, feels that the 2014-15 fiscal year was successful, not only because of the amount of grant funds received, but because the funding was in many different areas.

Valasek, working with department chairs, faculty and administrators, saw grant money coming to the colleges of Education, Sciences and Business, as well as to the Rieck Center for Habitat Studies. Funding was directed to the environmental and ecological restoration of a flood region in Hancock County, to encourage individuals to become science or math teachers and to provide internships and career guidance to current UF students.

In September 2015, The University of Findlay received the largest grant in its history to prepare math and science teachers to work in schools that serve low-income students. UF was one of just 142 schools in the nation that submitted proposals for the National Science Foundation's Robert Noyce Teacher Scholarship Program. The award was $1.2 million.

Both UF students and the Findlay business community have benefitted from the $149,340 Great Lakes Higher Education Guaranty Corporation's grant to enhance employment opportunities. In some cases, small employers, who could not afford it in the past, were able to provide paid internships using grant funds.

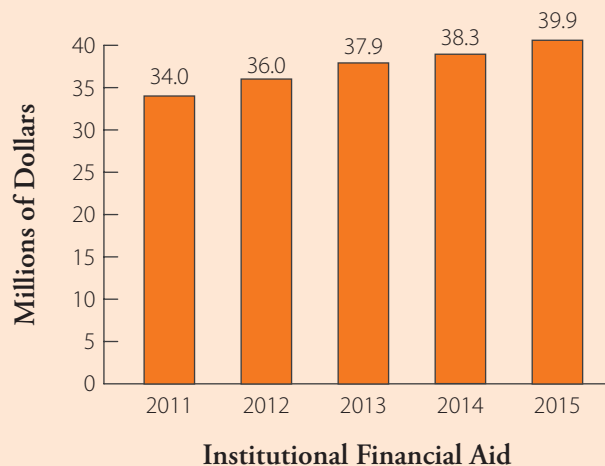

Can Hancock County's frequent floods actually be turned into an environmental and educational asset? Thanks to a $93,316 award from the Ohio EPA, Ben Dolan, Ph.D., of the Biology Department, has been organizing a wetlands restoration and enhancement project at The Rieck Center, a 55-acre nature preserve owned by the University since 1986.

Other grant awards received last year include:

- College Success Grant from the Great Lakes Higher Education Guaranty Corporation in the amount of $81,449 to support interventions that keep at-risk, first-year students on the path to graduation.
- Findlay-Hancock County Community Foundation award of $18,574 (over three years) to support one-on-one tutoring through the College of Education's "Clubhouse."
- Public Utilities Commission of Ohio (PUCO) award to the All Hazards Training Center in the amount of $700,000 to provide free safety/security training to Ohio Public Schools.
- Mini grants from national ENACTUS, with its partnerships with WalMart and Sam's Club, to fund projects of UF's ENACTUS Chapter. Students worked on projects that helped empower local women in business, and provide marketing assistance to a local butcher shop/carryout.

Endowed Funds

Currently, more than 99 percent of students at UF receive scholarships or financial aid. Endowed funds play a vital role in ensuring that every student has access to a Findlay education. Every endowed fund establishes a foundation that exists in perpetuity and influences the opportunities available to students at this University. They provide scholarships, enrich academic programs and help faculty stay current in their academic fields. Endowed funds can be established during the donor's lifetime or through a bequest. Each endowment reflects not only the needs of the University but also the legacy of the donors who created it.

During the Aug. 1, 2014 through July 31, 2015 fiscal year, 21 funds became fully endowed, at a principal amount of $10,000 or more. These funds are listed below:
